NOTE: Japanese terminology used for escapes, entries and most classifications are those used by Midori Yama Judokai. Fusegi Kata can be divided into two major clauses: Nige kata, which are used to escape: Kaeshi kata, which are used to reverse the attack. Both nige kata and kaeshi kata have five basic variations, indicated by the terms ikkyo (1st form -- up hill turn), nikyo (2nd form -- legs over escape), sankyo (3rd form -- leg entangling escape), yonkyo (4th form -- leg out escape), and gokyo (5th form -- double arm escape the preceding are the forms of nige kata. The forms of kaeshi kata are ikkyo (1st form -- sit up escape), nikyo (2nd form -- single roll escape), sankyo (3rd form -- bridge and roll escape), yonkyo (4th form -- double bridge and roll escape) and gokyo (5th form -- press out escape).
